Re: Notice regarding December 1 deposition of James E. Putman in connection with his chapter 7 bankruptcy case

Attached to this memorandum is a copy of an order – entered late in the afternoon yesterday – issued by the bankruptcy court supervising the chapter 7 bankruptcy case filed by James and Christine Putman. The order grants my motion to conduct a deposition (called a "Rule 2004 examination") of Mr. Putman, during which I and attorney David Melnick may ask him questions, under oath, regarding, among other things, his property, his debts, and his past and current finances.

In the papers filed in his bankruptcy case, Mr. Putman listed, as creditors, investors in Wealth Management LLC and the six Wealth Management investment funds. The attached order permits creditors to attend the examination of Mr. Putman as an observer, but does not permit you to ask questions yourself.

The examination of Mr. Putman is scheduled to begin tomorrow, December 1, 2010, in Appleton, Wisconsin, although I anticipate that it will continue beyond tomorrow. If you wish to attend tomorrow's deposition, please call or e-mail me or my counsel, Christopher Combest, using the contact information below.
